

ONLINE SYMPOSIUM NWA-Matchmaking event: Co-creation of interventions to improve maternal and newborn health

December 16, 2020, via ZOOM
5-9pm CET / GMT +1 (The Netherlands)
7-11pm EAT / GMT +3 (Tanzania)
1-5pm SRT / GMT -3 (Suriname)

To achieve SDG 3 'Ensure healthy lives and promote well-being for all at all ages', effective health interventions are needed. Co-creation of interventions has recently become a key concept in delivering effective and sustainable local solutions.

The aim of this meeting is to discuss co-creation of maternal and child health interventions:

- What is co-creation of interventions and why is it important?
- What are the key ingredients and challenges in co-creation?
- How do we incorporate co-creation in maternal health research?
- What are good practice examples of co-creation?

This meeting facilitates conversations between e.g. practitioners, policymakers and researchers from around the world through plenary and group discussions.

Some of our distinguished speakers are: Jos van Roosmalen (Athena Institute, VU University, Amsterdam), Maria Codina (Share-Net international), Rieke van der Graaf (UMC Utrecht), and Tarek Meguid (Village Health Works, Burundi).

This symposium is connected to 3 PhD ceremonies on December 17, 2020:

Natasha Housseine, 11AM CET

Lachmi Kodan, 1.45PM CET

Kim Verschueren, 2.30PM CET

For more information and registration, use this link:
<https://bit.ly/co-creation20>

nationale
wetenschaps
agenda

